

Your Second To Last Day

I recently asked you how you would treat those around you if you somehow knew it was your last day-

Whether you would thank those who had helped you-

Spend time with those you love

But I learned as I wrote that spot that I couldn't possibly say all that I intended in just one minute

This is part two

Your SECOND to last day, if you will

The reason is

I'm urging you to consider how this world would be if we all used that standard in dealing with each other

This is Bob Brenna, Jr. from the Law Firm of Brenna & Brenna giving you that second chance right here, right now

Use this opportunity to tell the truth – not because you will be better off

But because every untruth deprives someone else of justice and fairness somewhere down the line

Let your concern for others be expressed

Let people know you care

Be generous

Be kind

Not because it will help you

But because you've been given a second chance today

Your second last day